MINNEAPOLIS, which has been afflicted for a year by a municipal administration in the interest of the saloons, under Mayor Ames, deserves the credit of furnishing the votes which defeated Ames as the Democratic candidate for Governor. A year ago Minneapolis elected Ames Mayor by about 5000 majority, but at the gubernatorial election she gave a majority against him large enough to wipe out the majority in his favor elsewhere in the State.
THE Los Angeles Herald vouches for the good health, physical and mental, of its editor, Mr. Joseph D. Lynch. It says:
"Mr. Lynch's canvass of the district has the effect of wonderfully improving his health, and it was thoroughly good before." If there's a case where a man has "Mens sana in corpore sano."
that case is in the mind and body of Joseph D. Lynch.
For an obvious reason THE TIMES gives this statement from its contentoratory.
DR. HIRSH SINSABAUGH, President of Council, has announced his inflexible determination not to be a candidate for re-election. He feels that he has served the city at great personal loss for long enough. He carries with him in retiring, the respect of the city which he will find so faithfully served, and which will find it hard indeed to fill his place. He is of the caliber that honors the city in any office; a cultured, progressive, sturdy man, without the shade of a shadow upon his escutcheon.
[FRANCIS] having been made as to the position of Dr. L. W. French, a candidate for the mayoralty, on the high license proposition, THE TIMES presents the record: The high-license ordinance came up before Council for adoption on Tuesday, September 22, 1885. Dr.
French moved to postpone one week the vote on Messrs. Brown, Hamilton, Holbrook, Lambie, Santee, Sinsabaugh and Velsir voting no, and only Messrs.
French and McGarry voting yes. The ordinance was carried by the affirmative votes of Brown, Hamilton, Holbrook, Lambie, Santee, Sinsabaugh and Velsir. French and McGarry voted against it. The measure, afterwards overwhelmingly indorsed by the people, would have been defeated at the outset but for the affirmative vote of Lambie, Democrat.
The Los Angeles and San Bernardino line will be run through to Los Angeles [Ontario Record.]
The surveying party which has been working west from San Bernardino is now at the mouth of the river. The three are twelve in the party under the direction of M. B. Terrasa. An interview failed to develop anything of very much interest about the other. There is talk of running a line certainly to be built at an early day; the present survey is, however, only preliminary. There is considerable interest in the right of way and practicality of route may affect the final decision of the matter. The line crosses the Ontario at Tenth street, passes through the Cucamonga vineyard, 200 yards below the winery, and goes somewhat below Elivada, passing a little south of the pump, which is a familiar landmark near the San Bernardino stage road. We have it run through to Los Angeles, distinct from the San Gabriel valley line, though of course a junction may be effected, or the San Gabriel valley may be built through about the other. There is talk of running a lower line which would come down to Eighth or Seventh street, but the present line will be run through to Los Angeles first. Too much importance should not be attached to this survey as indicating exactly the route to be followed. Our own opinion is that as the Riverside, Santa Ana and Los Angeles branch is to be pushed ahead, over 100 teams being now at work in every locality, the completion of the foothill line this winter.

A RING

The Burke-Dempsey Fight Saw Public in San Francisco.

The Two Men Battered Each Other Ten Hard Rounds.

The Referee Unable to Say which of the Best of the Battle.

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—[By the Evening Associated Press.] It was supposed some that the Sullivan-Ryan glove controversy fight, which took place to-night if, however, public interest in the two contests is to be measured by results, then Burke-Dempsey affair has proved it is much more interesting and important event than was the great "knock-out" Ryan by Sullivan. Burke and Dempsey were evenly matched. Dempsey's reputation of being a harder hitter, while at the same time he went into the ring with the prestige of being the winner of thirty fights. Burke, on the other hand, was supposed to have largely gained a hitting power, to the advantage of a more scientific training, and with a better fighting condition than his opponent.
Besides this, it was well known that he was not a business, and that if he stopped for a moment, he would not be until forced to. Everything consequently contributed to make the matter of much more interest to the audience ever witnessed in this city. As early 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, Fillmore street was so crowded that the audience people, each determined to see a fight place this time, if they never did again.
At 5 o'clock the crowd had so increased numbers, that the referee had to direct the hearts of those destined to share in the receipts. When the main doors were closed, the referee had to direct a squad of police and the doorknobs kept the crowd from rushing in with who wanted to see the fight for the first. For a few moments the audience if the match indeed would be preceded by any other fight outside, but when the crowd saw that there would not be admitted to force their way in, they patiently fell back, each one taking his turn.

After the usual preliminary exhibition by local pugilistic celebrities, Ed. Mc-Donald, the referee, called the fighters to the ring. This event was the first one, and was noticeable by the evident endeavors of the contestants in the ring to show their respective their respective excellencies. The contest ended slightly in favor of McDonald, who gave the referee a few light blows, though he did not come off with considerable punishment himself. In the second round, Burke landed a few knocked down, but quickly came to his feet. George Hamill, of St. Louis, and Jack McDonigan, then fought four rounds in most ordinary manner, and with little interest in the contest. Before the round was over the amusement and interest in this evening Burke and Dempsey would appear.

At 7:30 p.m. the manager for Burke, "Parson" Davies, made a good arrangement for a punctual start. Arrangements timed for 10 o'clock, but 10:20 arrived without any sign of the "stars," and the audience, impatient of delay, began to things, manifested impatience by stamping whistles and cat-calls. At 10:34 Burke appeared, and the audience, who had jumped through the ropes into the ring.
He was greeted with loud applause and a cheer. The referee, Jack Dempsey, his appearance increased the interest of the audience. The referee, who had which continued until both were quiet.
The referee, Jack Dempsey, of this city, was announced to receive the fight. He announced, but he failed to put in an appearance. Pres. for Sullivan and Ryan the were present, they made no remarks.
Several others were requested to act as referee, but all declined. At this time ment a loud crash. The referee, who street side of the hall, near Polk street, followed by the breaking in of the large door. The referee, who had been in the dressed men, who thus succeeded in witnessing the contest free of charge.

The referee, who had been in the house. Yells of "Paddy Ryan," "Bill McDonigan," "Beynon" and "Charlie Rooney" were heard. The referee, who had been quickly followed by the referee, who had were not accepted. Taylor then again asked for silence, and said: "We are with you, and we are with you. We are with body," but Sullivan also stoutly refused After much further parleying from McDonigan, the referee, who had been selected referee. The struggle for letkeepers began, and was dropped upon of-fensions to Crockett by Burke. The matter was finally settled by the referee, who referee for Burke, and Jack Hamill for Dempsey.

At 11:00 p.m. time was called, at 11:08 p.m. both men promptly responded. No sooner did they come together than Dempsey let two right hands and reached Burke in the ribs. Both men then stepped back, and then lead and reached Dempsey a smart blow on the chest. Dempsey got a left hander to take Sullivan's head, and rein the same style. Caution on both sides was then noticeable. In the latter part of the second round, Dempsey, which resulted slightly in favor of Burke. The referee allowed, and after some more sparring time, the referee was called.

Second round.—The referee, who had been promptly sparring cautiously for an opening.
Dempsey landing with his left twice on Burke's ribs, and reached Burke with a right-hander on Dempsey's head, and re-broke away. Dempsey landing a heavy right hander on Burke's wind. Burke got a left hander to take Sullivan's head, and re-Burke forcing the fight with a right hander on Dempsey's neck, and following it for the third round. The referee was Third round.—The referee, who had been Burke's body. Some rapid exchanges followed. The round was marked by quick action.

Fourth round.—Dempsey led off with his left on Burke's stomach, each scoring a left glove. Burke, who had been in the right-hander on Dempsey's head, and re-Dempsey next led off with his left, reaching Burke's wind. Dempsey was forcing the fight with a right hander on Burke's right-hander was too high. He next took Dempsey on the throat, and maintained the pace.

The fifth round opened with a quick exchange. Dempsey aimed a vicious right hander at Burke's stomach, but missed. Burke countered with effect twice, but caused Dempsey only to give a wide berth in fighting and more exchange ended the round.

The sixth round opened with Burke already weary. Dempsey was a trifle tired and apparently had been drinking. Burke landed another heavy right on Dempsey's head, followed by an upper-cut which sent him reeling. Dempsey's left hander on Burke's mouth, Dempsey again in a tight-shoulder on Burke's belly and a second time sent him reeling and landing his right heavily on Dempsey's nose.

Ninth round—Both men appeared weakened from their efforts, and the part of the round was sparring for Burke against his Burke a light blow. Burke took care to force the fight, and succeeded in getting in two body blows.

Tenth round—Both men were in no better condition than in the eighth round. Dempsey led short and was again countered by Burke. Dempsey again landed a light blow on Burke's right-hand-side. Burke with a right hander on Dempsey's head, at this point forced the fighting.

Ninth round—Burke got in one on Dempsey's head, but it did not seem to do even. Dempsey got back with a swinging blow of his left on the side of Burke's head. Burke immediately countered Burke took the offensive, and with advantage to himself. The fighting then became a series of light blows.

Tenth round—Dempsey again led short, but was countered by another right-lander on Burke's neck.

Eleventh round—The two men began exchanging blows, but on being called back, Burke hit Dempsey a light body blow on the chest, which sent him reeling to his corners, Burke taking off his leg while Dempsey remained seated. Burke then reached up for ten rounds and as they had been fought the rest of the evening.

To the audience charged Dempsey yelled at Burke to get up, but he refused his corner, and on Capt. Douglas signaling his willingness to continue the fight, Dempsey came forward and landed on the principals, seconds and referee discussed the situation. The main cause of the trouble seemed to be that the principals were unable to agree. Therefore the manager would be called a draw. Both men were exhausted, but Burke was apparently still fresh and none the worse for their efforts.

THE BOODLERS

Another Day of the New York Brawl

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(By the Western Associated Press.) At the trial of ex-assistant Mayor McQuade, today, there were five present who were not actively engaged in the case. Shortly after 11 o'clock New York City Police Commissioner James J. Connelley, Alderman John O'Neill, and the counsel of the examination of the witness, Newcomb introduced the minutes of the Board of Aldermen of 1894, to prove that McQuade had twice voted against railroad bonds for New York City and Brooklyn Fifth street roads.

Ex-Alderman Charles H. Reilly says that he did not attend any of the meetings of the board of aldermen, but that he was being in Fullinger's place of business in New York City at the time. He testified for no purpose in his life. His testimony showed that he called on the witness, the guilt or the innocence of the case.

Dempsey then began his address to the jury.

A Brave Engineer

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(The Daily News-Savoie (Ill.), special says) In a collision between two Illinois Central trains tonight four men were instantly killed and six seriously wounded. A freight train, in the caboose of which was Albert Dunlap, grain buyer, John McKee, engineer, and James Todd, a blacksmith, stopped Savoy for a few minutes. The crew failed to see the passenger train approaching and following crashed into the caboose, killing the occupants, F. M. Sanderson, a brakeman on the rear train, and three men on the wreck of the engine and its tender almost before recognition. The engineer, James Neer, was decapitated and his body was found some distance from his hand was on the throttle and his head a foot away.

On a Tour of Inspection.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 22.—The government has sent Mr. T. Masac, federal inspector of colonies and fisheries to Lower California to make full report regarding the condition of various fisheries now established there. Inspector Masac will also visit all of the islands in the Gulf of Mexico, naval vessels having been placed at his disposal for that purpose.

Ore Development in Potots.

VIRGINIA CITY (Nev.), Nov. 22.—The south drift on the 200-foot level over the Potots mine shows eighty-four feet of ore, about 60 per cent pure. Well-posted operators in mining shares are of opinion that future operations will demonstrate it to exceed in extent and value the development in the Consolidated California and Virginia mines.

A Steamer Wrecked.

VICTORIA (B. C.), Nov. 22.—The steamer Barnard Castle, Capt. Urquhart, struck Rosedale rock this morning, and was beached at Pilot Bay, Bentick Island. The captain and crew of twenty-five got away in small boats, but likely to be lost. It is understood that the vessel and her cargo of coal are fully insured.

An Engineer's Mishap.

REDWOOD CITY, Nov. 22.—Dennis Delaney, engineer for Timothy Hopkins & Co., Menlo Park, went into the pit of the gas house yesterday and was killed with gas and lit a torch to look Volante in sight. An explosion occurred and Delaney was terribly burned. His recovery is uncertain.

Blown Off Shore.

HUNTERE, Nov. 22.—The schooner Volante was blown off the beach at night last week, by a strong wind. The vessel sprang a leak and was blown off near Annapolis Island. The tug Relief now here will go after her and take her to San Francisco.

Another Lake Disaster.

MUSKOGEE (Mich.), Nov. 22.—It is judged that the schooner Cavalier was blown off in storm on Lake Superior yesterday. Crewed, 7 miles from here. Captain Smith and four unknown sailors perished.

Fire at Healdsburg.

HEALDSBURG, Nov. 22.—The Riverside farm house near here, was burned to the ground last night. Total loss, $10,000. Insurance. It was owned by F. N. Delaney.

By Telegrams To The Times.

New York, Nov. 22.—[By the Western Associated Press.] Great crowds here assembled at an early hour this morning at Lexington avenue, in the vicinity of Arthur residence, where the dead body of ex-President of the United States lay in state. President Cleveland and his master-General Vilas arrived in a car direct from the train at 8 a.m., and entered the house wearing emblems of mourning. Shortly after Gov. Hill and Judge Wm. Miller arrived and entered the house, accompanied by their families.

At 9:30 the black casket, covered with palm-leaf leaves, sprays of violets and flowers, was borne down steps by undertaker's assistants and borne from the room. The mourners filled twenty-five funeral cars and 100 carriages filled with friends followed the procession to the church.

Among the hundreds of distinguished gentlemen present at the church were James G. Blaine, Hon. John A. Logan, B. F. Butler, Rev. Henry W. Beecher, Hon. Charles D. Walcott, Senator Evans, John Jacob Astor, J. P. Field and staff, Senator John Sherman and President C. B. Hayes.

After the service the undertaker's assistants lifted the casket on their shoulders and proceeded slowly out of the church towards the grave. The casket was placed in the hearse, the cortege of Chopin's Funeral March, passed along the river front, and the police escorted the Forty-first street to Vanderbilt place, the Grand Central depot before the coffin was removed from the hearse to the funeral home, Woodhouse & Sons. The Railcar, then took seats in three drawing-room coaches composing the special train.

About five o'clock the funeral train left Albany at 1:20 o'clock. The burial of the remains were at once taken to the Cemetery.

A COWARDLY MURDER.

A SON OF REV. DR. COLLIER SHOT AND KILLED.

EMPORIA (KAN.), Nov. 22.—[By Western Associated Press.] A most provoked and fendish murder was committed in this city this evening, at the residence of Dr. H. B. Collier, on the corner of Market street and Ninth avenue, about 6 o'clock. It appears that L. D. Collier, son of Rev. Robert Laird Collier, of Kansas City, has been in the employ of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company as material agent at this place. He employed one J. H. Yarborough as helper in the tower, a temporary absence from his regular duties. Upon his return he told Yarborough that he was surprised to find that he had no money, and that he was being then under the influence of liquor. Collier ordered alcohol and struck Collier, whereupon Collier returned the blow, knocking him down. The borough declaring that he would shoot Collier, Collier went to a hotel where he hid himself from view. Shortly after the residence of Mr. Bunsen Collier stepped to the door of the hotel, he saw his assailant, who instantly drew a revolver and fired upon Collier. The ball immediately struck in at the heart, killing him almost instantaneously. Yarborough was now in jail.

Struck by a Cyclone.

GIRARD (KAN.), Nov. 22.—A cyclone of electrical storm struck Girard at 5:40 p.m. morning and passed through the residential portion of the town from the southwest to the northwest. The wind rose up to all from fifty to seventy-five feet per minute. All of the lighter buildings were demolished, and the larger and more substantial buildings sustained considerable damage. The total damage was over $6000. The Presbyterian Church is wrecked, number of persons were injured.

The Dark and Bloody Ground.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 22.—The Courier-Journal's special says: The followers of Everett and French, the mountain merchants and their allies, are called, had a battle with Hazard, Pease, Kay, Wednesday, with a man named Stryker, Ky. Wednesday, with parties was then held, and resulted in justice signing an agreement to leave the country and to arbitrate the matter, which decision should be pending until which hostilities should cease.

Cutting's Divorced Wife.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Kate Cutting, the divorced wife of A. K. Cutting, who achieved notoriety in Mexico recent years, was married here to-night to Sterling Manson, a resident of this city. Cutting was twice married and has two children, aged seven and eleven years. During this time she had nine children, three of whom are alive and under their mother's care.

Foreign Notes.

SOFIA (Bulgaria), Nov. 22.—Karaveloff and Senakoff will soon leave Sofia. They have already obtained Russian passports.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—All the Russian steamers on the Danube have been ordered to proceed to Odessa.

Rosine, the Imperial Japanese Papal Secretary of State, on the plea of ill-health, has asked the Pope to accept his resignation.

Death of Charles Francis Adams.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Hon. Charles Francis Adams, Sr., died yesterday. He was the third son of John Quincy Adams.

RAIN IN THE MOUNTAINS.

ANNANDALE, Nov. 21.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] On the night of the 20th inst. it rained incessantly. Four inches of water must have fallen, and sleet at an altitude of 8000 feet. The streams are much swollen. It is still shoveling and cold.

The new proprietor of the Banning (or Bryant) House, who was an invalid, lived only eleven days after he took possession, to the great surprise of all. He departed this life last Thursday, about 6 o'clock, and the body was taken to San Bernardino to be embalmed, after which it will be transferred to Kentucky, the deceased's old home. What will be done with the hotel is not known yet. He left a wife and two children. His wife's brother is with her. The people regret his demise, as also the loss of his family, should they decide to go to their friends in Kentucky. The improvement will stop, of course. This place has received a severe blow, and all feel it and sympathize with the esteemed widow.

HE DID NOT HAVE HIS HANDS FULL OF MURDERING.

SOUTH PARADISE, Nov. 21.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES:] I wish to correct the very erroneous statement in your paper of the 19th inst., concerning the affair that occurred at Lincoln Park, on the Los Angeles and San Gabriel Valley Railroad, last Tuesday morning, in which my leg was broken.

In the first place, Conductor Reeder did not touch me at all, nor offer to assist me in any way, either to get on or off the car, and, besides, I did not have "my hands full of bedding." The composition of that latter remark was very suggestive, to say the least, and would leave one in doubt as to whether I was a tramp or a hostler. I consider it an insult to any man's dignity to be spoken of in such a manner, and that a man could deliberately stand by and see a person crippled up in such a way, and then add insult to injury, by circulating such a report as was sent to your paper, thereby trying to convey to the public the idea that I was a vagrant, undeserving of sympathy, and at the same time assuming the role of a hero, himself, is more than my good nature can endure. Of course, I attach no blame to THE TIMES, as it was as it was evidently misinformed. Very respectfully,

J. E. EVERETT.

PETER AND BISHOP SIMPSON.

A Sermon and Lecture at University Place.

A TIMES correspondent writes: The sermon of Rev. B. F. Cherrington yesterday morning was on the character of Peter. The following were some of the points he made:

First, Peter was very impulsive. He spoke without consideration. He acted from impulses, without weighing the consequences that would follow. This the speaker illustrated by numerous instances in his history—first, when he was a valet, and then when he was a fisherman. He was always the first to speak; the first to give advice, often ill-advised. He was perpetually blundering. The practical part of this was that men with great zeal and noble impulses will accomplish more than those of little zeal and great prudence. Second, he was a man of great boldness. John Huss stood before kings, popes and cardinals; he asserted boldly in the teeth of all combined authorities, civil and ecclesiastical, the right of private judgment in religion. He was a hero. Martin Luther looked every man in the face at the Diet of Worms, and declared he would preach the word of God as he understood it, till convinced he was wrong. He knew, like Huss, it was at the expense of his life. The verdict of the world was against him.

But Peter stood up on the day of Pentecost facing a vast mob and told them that they had rejected and murdered the Messiah. He stood before the Jewish Sanhedrin, where, with authority, he had never been questioned from the time of Moses, and said, "Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, ye judge ye. We cannot but speak the things we have seen and heard."

Huss and Luther were men of culture; Peter was ignorant and unlearned. They were masters of thought and language; he spoke the dialect of the obscure village where he was born, and had little, if any, knowledge of scholarship. The speaker dwelt upon several other characteristics, among which were fidelity, tenacity of purpose, etc. He seemed at first sight a bundle of incongruities. He was often vacillating, yet it was on the surface. Deep down in his soul there was stability and inflexible loyalty.

The peccator of this interesting discourse was an apostrophe to Peter, which it seemed must bring tears to all eyes. He had spoken of the denial of Jesus's forgiveness, and said, "O, Peter, thou, while defending thy Master, didst boldly deny him. Thou couldst not tell why thou didst it. Many all over the world—in this congregation—are linked to thee in this treacherous denial. Inasmuch as they denied their Lord, but could not tell why they did it. Like thou who wentest out in the early morn to weep, so have they, bowed in the dust, weeping, scalding tears, and, like thou, been forgiven."

The college lecture was by Rev. Dr. Weller. It was a masterly analysis of the character of the late Bishop Simpson. Born in obscurity, bereaved of his father when an infant, through the wise direction of a noble mother at twenty-one he was a youth of untarnished character. He studied medicine, commenced his practice, but was soon impressed that he must preach. He supposed his widowed mother would be sad, but she smiled: "My son, I have expected this ever since you were born." By industry, perseverance, great tenacity of purpose and entire consecration to God, he overcame almost insurmountable obstacles—feeble health, poverty, lack of innate genius, and a marked defect, like to the very acme of fame as a pulpiter. Said the reverend gentleman: "I am not a Methodist, and cannot be accused of denominational prejudice; but I heard him often, always with a certain amount of interest, and I heard him equal, never his superior, especially on great occasions."

Evangelical Work.

The evangelist, Rev. A. P. Graves, D.D., of New York city, closed his labors in the First Baptist church Sunday night. His labors during his eighteen days' work in our city have been earnest and successful. He has preached more than forty sermons in the church, besides giving several addresses to the Y. M. C. A. meetings. The people of the church, Rev. F. W. Dorsey, is much encouraged by the results of his work, which is spreading all through the ranks of the church. Many from all the different churches, especially the afternoon Bible readings.

AT EAST LOS ANGELES.

The protracted meetings at Astor M. E. church, Sunday, Nov. 21, were well attended and successful. A score of persons were on the anxious seat Sunday. Lizzie Miller, the evangelist, will work at those meetings throughout the week.

Early Frosts.

The following correspondence explains itself:

LOS ANGELES (Cal.), Nov. 21.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES:] Referring to the items contained in your esteemed paper last spring in regard to the fruits of Palm Valley, near San Gabriel, I am glad to inform you, as being the earliest and best fruits raised in the State, I send you copy of letter received from Wm. Henry Maule, seedman, of Palm Valley, which shows that a muskmelon raised at Palm Valley has taken the prize of $50 offered for the largest and most perfect muskmelon of the variety.

Very respectfully,

J. M. McALLUM.

PHILADELPHIA (Pa.), Nov. 8.

S. F. Chadwick, Jr., Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sir:—I am very glad to learn you that your perfection muskmelon, weighing seventeen pounds, is entitled to the $50 prize offered for the largest muskmelon of the variety raised last summer from my seed.

I give me pleasure to hand you with this my check for $50, being the amount of said premium.

Yours truly,

Wm. Henry MAULE.

Incorporated.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday in the County Clerk's office by the Palmdale Irrigation Company. The object is to buy and sell land and water, and to construct and maintain a canal, to be known as the Palmdale Canal, for the purpose of irrigating the lands of the Palmdale National Guard.

See what the militia can do when it takes its lip in its teeth. Twelve members of the National Guard, a Chicago mob of 500. They invited the leaders into a brewery to see the schooners cross the bar.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and faint smudges, characteristic of old paper. The left edge of the page shows the binding of the book, with visible stitching and the inner cover material. There is no text or other markings on the page.
